DOYLESTOWN.

REPUBLICANS SATISFIED WITH THE RESULT OF THE ELECTION—DEMOCRATS SORRY OVER THE DEFEAT OF HAGERTY—AN INTERESTING LIQUOR CASE TRIED IN DOYLESTOWN.

The colored people of Doylestown had a grand day on Sunday, when their new church, a wooden little structure, erected to take the place of one recently destroyed by fire, was dedicated. Several pastors of Doylestown and Rabbi Koplowitz, also of this place, delivered addresses. The congregation was much pleased with the public interest manifested in the services.

Public opinion here is now centered in the proceedings of criminal court, which convened on Monday morning. An interesting case came up Monday afternoon, that of the Commonwealth against Francis Bros., liquor dealers and bootlers at Doylestown. They appointed an agent to sell their goods at Newtown, one George Vansant. Vansant kept a supply of beer and liquor on hand, which he dispensed to customers by delivering it at their homes or in the street, it being his impression, and also the belief of his employers, that so long as he sold no liquor upon the premises he was not violating the law. In consequence of this the members of the firm and the agent were indicted for selling liquor without a license and to people of known intemperate habits. The chief point in the case was whether the agent had the right to sell at all in the manner described. The Court held that a license to an establishment of this kind did not permit it to have liquor stores in every hamlet and town, but that orders must be sent to the house licensed and be filled and delivered from that place. This point of law was argued by Hon. Robert M. Yardley for the defendants. The case was given to the jury on Tuesday morning.

In his charge to the jury Judge Yerkes stated very emphatically that the law does not permit a wholesale liquor dealer to sell at any place except the one described in his license. The jury convicted the defendants of selling without a license and acquitted them of the other charges. Sentence had not been imposed up to Wednesday morning, and it was reported that a motion for a new trial would be made.

There were seventeen cases on the list when court convened and the term was a short one. The result of the election seems to have given general satisfaction to Republicans at Doylestown and vicinity. Even the Swallow party are gratified seeing that Stone did not have a majority over Jenks. The loyal members of the party regret that such was the case, but so long as their candidate was successful in the State they look upon the bright side of things and hope that Governor Stone's administration will be such that all factional disputes will cease. There is almost universal satisfaction over the success of the county ticket. Republicans generally feel that the men elected will conduct their respective offices in a manner that will meet with public approval.

The Democrats are still chagrined over the defeat of Hagerty, the one candidate they hoped to elect. The leaders must realize that the failure to achieve a victory at a time when party strife reigned in the Republican party presages defeat for the future, when affairs will undoubtedly be more harmonious. In their bitterness the Democrats are actually talking about contesting the election of Rice, Hagerty's successful opponent in the race for the State Senate. The party organ, the Doylestown Democrat, published on Monday the following comments upon the subject:

Several election contests have been begun in Pennsylvania, upon the outcome of which will likely depend the title of Hampton V. Rice, the Prohibition-Republican candidate at the late election, to a seat in the State Senate. Many able lawyers hold that, under the Baker ballot law, votes cast for one candidate under two different party names cannot be aggregated. This question is now to be tested in the courts and upon the decision will probably depend Mr. Rice's right to sit in the Senate.

Mr. Rice was first nominated by the Prohibition party, then by the Republican party. His name appeared twice on the ballot, and his aggregate vote is 7948, while the vote of Jacob Hagerty, Democrat, is 7103. It is quite likely that Mr. Rice did not secure a plurality without counting the Prohibition vote. Dr. Swallow's vote in Bucks county is 1209. If 84 of these voted for Rice on the Prohibition ticket he would not be legally elected, if the constitution of the contest is upheld by the courts. Whether Mr. Hagerty intends to contest the election in court or not we have not heard.

With all due deference to what may eventually be the opinion of the jurists whose function it is to interpret the law, it will strike the average man that the position assumed or rather suggested by the Democrat upon this subject is sheer nonsense. To contest an election upon the ground stated is simply a declaration that the will of the people is to be defeated. The very word "elect" is most significant in this connection. Every intelligent citizen knows what was the sentiment of each voter who marked a cross at the top of the tickets upon which Rice's name appeared. If an election is designed to accomplish one thing more than another it is to afford every citizen the right to express freely his preference for candidates at the polls. The very secrecy of the ballot puts the voter in very much the same position as a testator, whose intent is the chief thing to be sought for when the language of a will may be ambiguous. Every man who voted for Rice meant to do so. There isn't the shadow of a doubt as to his majority. The Democrats say that it is knowledge as to whether Hagerty intends to press the matter. Under the circumstances it would seem to be wise for him to disregard counsel in that direction.

AMONG THE CHURCHES—SCHOOL DIRECTORS EXHIBIT ROUTINE BUSINESS—SUCCESSFUL GUNNING EXHIBITION—DEATH OF WILLIAM H. GARNETT.

Dr. William Tallman paid a business visit to Doylestown last Monday.

Mrs. Oliver Harper has been away on a few days' visit to her sister in Trenton.

The "Social" of the M. E. Church was held last Tuesday evening at Miss Rowland's residence, on Lovett avenue.

Mr. Carrol Conover, who has been visiting his uncle, Mr. Amos B. Headley, has returned to his home in Seattle, Wash.

Mr. George Boyce, formerly of Allentown, N. J., has rented and now occupies the house adjoining the residence of Mr. A. R. Wagenknight.

There will be a musical and literary entertainment given by the children of the M. E. Church and Sunday school on Friday evening, the 25th inst.

At the M. E. Church next Sunday evening the pastor will preach on "Christ as a Child." The sermon will be illustrated by stereoscopic views.

Messrs. C. E. Johnson and O. L. Barron have just returned from a three days' gunning trip into Springfield township. They brought back 14 rabbits and 5 quail.

The Christian of the Rev. William J. Wright, at the Tullytown Church, next Sunday morning, will be "The Bread from Heaven," and in the evening, "Joseph and his Brethren."

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of School Directors was held last Monday evening. The treasurer, Mr. Walter Williams, submitted a report showing that there were $638 now in the treasury. After the passage of orders for bills amounting to some $70, the Board adjourned.

Commenting last Wednesday the stores of Mr. Walter Williams, both here and at Burlington, are to be conducted upon a cash basis. Mr. Williams' new wagon from Burlington appeared in town this week, and the main streets were subsequently flooded with circulars announcing the change of the Tullytown store to a cash basis as well as a list of out prices in consequence.

An improvement has been made upon Main street by the purchase by Mr. A. B. Shoemaker of the former Wright property adjoining his residence and the subsequent raising of the old house that was upon the lot to the ground. The people of the borough will be glad to be rid of a house which, owing to the undesirable tenants to whom it had recently been rented, had become a nuisance. Mr. Shoemaker will add the new lot to his present frontage on Main street, and expects shortly to set a new stone curb along the entire front.

Seldom in the history of this borough has the death of any one man caused such a general feeling of sadness as that of Mr. William H. Garnett, who passed away last Sunday morning in the 67th year of his age. Mr. Garnett had been apparently unusually hale and well preserved up to within a few weeks of his demise. He has been one of the most active members of the M. E. Church ever since it was founded, and his death is a severe loss to the church organization. When comparatively a young man Mr. Garnett entered the employ of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, in whose service he has been employed for the past 35 years, he having worked at his trade of carpenter at the factory shops up to a few weeks held by the community was evinced by the large number of friends that attended the services on Wednesday, the 10th inst., at 2 p. m., from his late residence and at the church. The services were conducted by the present pastor, Rev. Francis Hawke, and a former pastor of the church, Rev. Dr. Judd. The deceased leaves a widow and four sons and one daughter.

The Jr. O. U. A. M. will turn out in a body the first Sunday after Thanksgiving to attend services in the M. E. Church.

On last Sunday all who went to church found on coming out a heavy downpour, making walking home anything but a pleasant task.

The members of the Y. P. S. C. E. will give a "Mother Goose Market" in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church on Friday evening, Nov. 18.

Century Council, No. 100, came over from Trenton to pay Morrisville Council, No. 918, a fraternal visit. They came on a good night as we were tendered a smoker by the Morrisville Guards Association.

The churches are beginning to make arrangements for their Christmas entertainments. For several years the Methodists have given cantatas. The programme for this year has not been decided on yet.

A gutter has been dug from the mud hole near the railroad track on Smith street to the corner below that may help some, but the sidewalk at that place is so often under water it needs more substantial treatment.

The comic entertainments given by George VanBuskirk in Mechanics Hall on Saturday and Monday were quite a success. There were about 800 attended each night. Something good of this sort would pay in our little town every week.

On Thursday Dayton Brunkerhoff was taken to St. Francis Hospital to be operated on for appendicitis. He stood the operation very well and is much better now. Lou Wright, who has been suffering from the same ailment, is improving rapidly and will soon be able to come home.

Rev. Mr. Jennings preached the last sermon to his people as pastor, as he has accepted a call to Wilmington, Del., and takes up his work there this week. Tonight there will be a farewell reception tendered him in the lecture room of the Presbyterian Church under the direction of the social committee.

We hope that our out-of-town friends will come and have a pleasant time while they help the good cause along. Admission, 5 cents; season tickets, good for the entire week, 15 cents.

PENN'S MANOR.

The C. E. Society will hold its meeting every Sunday at 6 45 p. m. in the chapel prior to service until further notice.

The dog of a farmer here located an opium in a hollow tree in the field. By enlarging the hole with a hatchet the dog got to the opium and caught Mr. Fossum by the tail to pull him out but only with the assistance of his master was he able to do it, when he killed him.

On the William B. Irvin farm they raised a big crop of turnips this fall. The report is that some of them are as large as a dinner plate, 14 of them filling a bushel basket.

Mr. George Irvin, 84 years of age, is with the men in the field all day, helping and doing his share. He seems to be a very hearty man.

Last Sunday evening Rev. Mr. Pittenger brought to the chapel two bright young students, Mr. Hamilton and Mrs. Eagan. The interesting addresses of each were very highly appreciated, as the close and silent attention of the audience manifested. Owing to the inclemency of the weather the turnout was not near as large as otherwise would have been the case.

Last Sunday between 2 and 8 a. m. some of the people of this vicinity were startled by seeing a bright blaze, reaching—as there was not much wind—up in the air. It made the surroundings nearly as bright as daylight. One of the neighbors nearby, when he awoke and saw the fire through his bedroom window and saw his room lightened up, thought the sun was rising and that he had overslept himself. Upon investigation it was found that the double barn of James Lovett, formerly owned by Benjamin Y. Morris, was on fire. The building was totally burned to the ground and with it 4 horses, some shoats, a lot of hay and rye straw, wagons and other articles. The origin of the fire seems

THURSDAY NOVEMBER 17, 1898.

The Business Men's League has defeated Senator Quay for re-election. Van Valkenberg did it with his little mouth.

David Manda will name the next mayor of Philadelphia. Walton, Seeds and Ashbridge have been trotted out for inspection.

A free silver woman was elected to office in West Branch, Michigan. Silence is golden, which probably accounts for the fact that there were no women candidates on the sound money ticket.

Honest W. Kreibitz, of Peunburg, Montgomery county, candidate for Assembly on the H. G. ticket, and who so violently assailed the character of Senator Quay, received but seventeen votes in his home district.

London is discussing the question "Should Wives Work?" Households, who have passed through numerous expensive dandy bonnet campaigns, will doubtless be averted in a solid phalanx on the negative side of the proposition.

Augustus Van Wyck, late candidate for Governor of New York, has lost $189,000 as a result of the election. By losing his seat on the Supreme Bench and failing to make the gubernatorial election he is out of pocket $18,500 for four years—$189,000.

In five weeks the New York banks have loaned Europe $60,000,000. The export trade for the week ending November 7 from the port of New York amounted to $10,168,330, against $7,845,516 for the corresponding week last year. Expansion seems to be the order of the day.

The solid South is not a dream. Of a total of 126 Democratic members elected to Congress the Southern States contribute 112. There is not a break in the line except in the case of Texas, where a Republican was elected from the Galveston district. He can be aptly termed the "Lone Star of Texas."

Candidates for the election next fall are commencing to bud. The office of Sheriff is the choicest plum to be awarded at the next County Convention. The name of Frank Hobensack, the popular young Republican and party worker, of Ivyland, has already been mentioned in connection with the sheriffship.

It is evident that the revenue derived from customs will not produce the required amount of cash to run the government. The fact is the United States is rapidly becoming an exporting nation; imports are continually lessening and it will be necessary to revise the existing revenue laws.

An anxious public awaits the opinion of the doughty colonel of the silver battalion regarding the result of the recent election. There is an unusual silence in the vicinity of regional headquarters of the Third Nebraska. We suggest that someone quickly break Bryan's "military lockjaw" and let him relieve the tension on his lungs.

The next Senate will contain only five Democratic Senators from the North. Four of those will be from states west of the Mississippi—two from Utah, one from Montana, and one from Kansas. Delaware is the only state in the North east of the Mississippi that will have a Democratic representative in the Upper House of Congress.

Populism could not withstand the assaults of Republican prosperity. Kansas, the mother lode of Populism, South Dakota and Washington have all returned to the Republican fold. Nebraska, Bryan's base of supplies, has been cut off from the remnants of the free silver army. A Republican Senator will succeed William V. Voorhees of Allen.

The most convincing argument in favor of the retention of the Philippines is the attitude of the Democrats in the premises. Americans who have not become fully satisfied that the acquisition of distant territory will be an advantage to the country, may, with safety, advocate expansion, as the Democrats never champion sound measures.

Dr. Swallow has "hollered nuff." He says that he is not an aspirant for any nomination for office. The revered gentleman can now settle back into the narrow groove where he belongs conscious of the fact that he had considerable fun, got arrested for libel, spent some money, received considerable notoriety, made the Republicans go home, and will never be heard of again.

The Honorable Jim Guffy, Democratic Commissioner, is an alleged candidate for the United States Senate. Mr. Wanamaker declares that he will be enough anti-Quay members of the Legislature, including the Democrats, to elect another than the Hon. M. S. Q. Guffy is to be congratulated in having won the support of the former Postmaster General and the Business Men's League. The Republican party is also fortunate in having these trivial matters definitely settled and properly clarified.

The North Wales Record wields a tremendous influence in its inflected community. After months of vigorous pencil campaigning and terrific waste of mental substance in advocating the cause of a split legislative ticket, North Wales rolled up a magnificent testimony of appreciation on election day. The three Assembly candidates on the Honest Government ticket whom Editor Johnson so earnestly championed received 21, 26 and 26 votes respectively. The satire editor should wear a Shanghai rooster on his hat.

The foul insinuations which a ronegote press uttered during the campaign have not yet entirely subsided. An effort is being made to have the people of Pennsylvania believe that the Hon. Charles W. Stone was defeated through treachery on the part of organization Republicans. Joe Sibley has been elected to Congress before. He is a man of strong personality; is immensely wealthy and spends his money in true Democratic fashion at election times. C. W. Stone, the man who is directly affected, has never yet indicated that there is any truth in the published insinuations.

A BRIGHT OUTLOOK.

The results of the recent elections augur well for the future prosperity of the nation. It requires no particularly well-trained eye to see that this country is now upon the brink of an era of prolonged and healthy activity in all lines of trade.

The first stroke for better times and increased trade and wealth was made two years ago by the election of President McKinley, and the people by their action this month gave conclusive evidence that they were well satisfied with the start made and endorsed the policy of the administration in a manner more emphatic than was employed in the Presidential election.

In two short years the country has been raised from the depths of despondency, recovered from wide-spread disaster and placed upon the high road to success and business prosperity.

It is only necessary to indulge in a retrospective glance, and take into consideration the paucity, and industrial stagnation to fully appreciate the conditions which surround us today. The United States is moving to the front by leaps and bounds. Instead of financial crashes and workmen's wallings we are loaning millions abroad and giving employment to thousands of extra employees. Instead of a depleted gold reserve that security is doubly ample.

The Republican party, through its wise management, has in two years transformed a great nation from dissatisfied and discontent to joy and comfort. An attempt was made by the Democracy to have the people record an objection to the Republican programme but the voters knew too well the cause of the rising tide and gave the administration a stamp of approval.

The very states which were the most strongly antagonistic to the Republican party in 1896 have come over bodily to the party of prosperity and progress.

The party of free silver and other false doctrines has been swept out of existence. Never again will any sane politician attempt to make a campaign on the issue of free silver.

The straw of the currency controversy has been threshed down to dust. People are weary of it. Democrats who are not fanatics except as it is mentioned, it is designed only for a time of great financial stress like that which prevailed two years ago. Then, and then only, could it have the smaller chance of winning a majority of the voters to its side by appealing to poverty and discontent. It was adopted in that belief by a coterie of Democratic leaders who wished, first, to spite President Cleveland; and, second, to make use of the terrible conditions brought about by Democratic mismanagement. Nobody will ever know how much the agitation cost the country, but it is measured by billions. It cost the Democratic party a division and two overwhelming defeats. After this year's experience it will be sent emphatically to the rear. If a candidate wears hereafter to make his case a certainty, he or she will whisper "18 to 1," or "the crime of '78." With that intolerable nonsense and contemplated dishonor the people will have no trucking.

Our foreign trade is constantly enlarging and money is pouring into the country. With no immediate possibility of having vaults unsealed, the conditions cannot help but continue to improve.

Great are the principles of the Republican party. The Doylestown Intelligencer has tossed the Hon. Charles W. Stone into the Senatorial arena. The gentleman whom our esteemed contemporary advocates is undoubtedly a quiet, inoffensive, honorable man, but he has never yet given any evidence of possessing those attainments which are desirable in a Representative from the great State in the United States Senate. Charles W. Stone, it is true, was the recipient of the votes of Bucks county's delegation at the State Convention, but the rest of the State did not entertain the same regard for his qualifications for the gubernatorial nomination as did the representatives of Bucks.

Defeated at Harrisburg, Mr. Stone went to his home in Doylestown, Pa., to meet with in goodly numbers in her drawing room. She dresses in the perfection of taste and has no more fastidious critic nor less astute than her husband.

Colonel Stone divides his evenings among his wife, children and books. He is an omnivorous reader, never making a railroad journey without the companionship of a book. His one of the recent trips from here to Philadelphia he was immersed in the "Seeds of the Mighty." He has so decided a penchant for books of adventure that there is a standing order at the library for literature of that description. It is in the best possible that makes him so fascinating a story-teller to children.

Senator Quay is an announced candidate for re-election to the United States Senate, and we confidently believe he will be the choice of the Legislature. The Wanamakers, Blankenburgs, Swallows, Van Valkenbergs, Business Men's League, Philadelphia Press, Ledger, Telegraph and Bulletin and even the north Wales record all declare that Quay cannot be elected. In the face of this imposing array of gross weight intelligence and eminent political prognostication, we have the audacity to predict a counter result.

Messrs. Dandly and Johnson, at the convention held in Norristown, insisted that the Anti-Quay League be given a majority representation on the Legislative ticket, bearing Mauchausen stories of huge anti-Quay Republican majorities to support their conscienceless claims. We insisted at the time that the tale was trying to win the dog, and the returns certify the correctness of our assertions. The League sympathizers cast about one-fourth as many votes as the straight Republicans. The result is just as we had it marked.

The attention of the Legislature-elect of Bucks county is directed to a condition of affairs in this county. The Borough of Doylestown enjoys an unjust privilege. Taxpayers at large in the county are compelled to pay for borough improvements which are of no benefit to the non-resident. The right which permits the borough to open up new streets causing heavy damages and consequent raids upon the county treasury, should be destroyed. Messrs. Rice, Edwards, Winner and Wilkinson are called upon to aid the taxpayers in their struggle for relief.

"Jerry" Simpson will remain in his practice home. Simpson gone, Lewis gone, Mahony gone, Congress will be dull and insipid. It will be like a circus without a clown. Probably there will be others who will develop enough deficiency to take their places.

Where are the H. S. Candidates? Skipper's Transcript. Reports of committees are in order. The committee appointed to find the Anti-Quay Republican League of Montgomery County beg leave to report that it found the League very much in evidence on election day.

Not the Dream of a Bard. Schwenksville Item. Both Wanamaker and Swallow say they will continue the fight until the bosses are defeated. They are not becoming bawse themselves in case they succeed.

GOVERNOR STONE.

HOME LIFE OF PENNSYLVANIA'S NEW EXECUTIVE—HIS INTERESTING FAMILY—LITERARY ABILITY OF THE GOVERNOR-ELECT.

Of all the men who have been Governor of Pennsylvania not one was more domestic in his habits than Colonel William A. Stone, who is now arranging to move from Washington to the Executive Mansion at Harrisburg. He was married twice. His first wife was Ellen Stevens, daughter of Ezra Stevens, a farmer living near Wellsboro, Tioga county. They were married in 1870 and two children were the result of their union. They are Stephen Stone, a promising young attorney of Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Harriet Hickling, wife of Dr. D. Perry Hickling, a prominent physician of Washington.

In 1877 Colonel Stone, who was then District Attorney of Tioga county, seeing that there was little field for advancement in that place, moved to Pittsburgh, where his wife died. In 1879 he married a daughter of Judge R. G. White, who for many years was the Presiding Judge of Tioga county. Six children resulted from this union.

Colonel Stone was a member of the Fifty-second, Fifty-third, Fifty-fourth and Fifty-fifth Congresses. Up to three years ago he lived in a palatial home at 165 Fayette street, Allegheny. During the long session of Congress he found he had to be in Washington all the time and he took a house at No. 1721 Q street.

Although Mr. Stone likes to entertain and will probably give magnificent receptions during his official residence in Harrisburg, Colonel Stone does not care much for society. He would rather romp and "play horse" with his children than wear a dress suit to a reception or dinner. When he lived in Allegheny he would go home from his law office and seldom left his house in the evening. Callers often found him with three or four children on his lap or back telling him reading stories to their youthful minds. If the children ordered it he would get down on all fours on the floor and ride the youngsters around the room on his back. Playing with the children was recreation for him.

At the outbreak of the civil war, though only 16 years of age, he enlisted in the Union army and went to the front with the Army of the Potomac and participated in a number of battles, securing the commission of second lieutenant of Company A, of the One Hundred and Eighty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers by bravery on the field. After the war he associated himself with the State National Guard and was commissioned a lieutenant colonel.

Some years after the war he entered the Normal School at Mansfield, Tioga county, taught school for a while and then read law at Wellsboro, where he was admitted to the bar in 1870. Since then he has been engaged in the practice of his profession at Wellsboro and subsequently at Pittsburgh.

He was elected District Attorney of Tioga county soon after his admission to the bar. He resigned the District Attorneyship in 1878 to enter the army. He was appointed United States Attorney for the Western district of Pennsylvania by President Hayes and was reappointed by President Arthur. Great credit, however, was given to him from office because of some speeches he made in the Beaver gubernatorial campaign. Colonel Stone then resumed his private practice.

On June, 1890, he was nominated for Congress in place of the late Thomas M. Bayne, who declined after receiving the nomination from the convention.

As a member of the judiciary committee of the Fifty-third Congress he gave his friends of the restricted immigration bill much encouragement by securing the passage of his bill through the House. Failing to get the immigration committee to report it, he then reported to his own committee by consent of the House, obtained a favorable report on it and had it on the calendar before the enemies of the measure were aware of his purpose. Then they bent every effort to defeat it, but when it came before the Senate to hear Senator Hill speak he passed it. Word was sent to his opponents, but when they rushed back to the House they found the bill had passed.

This gave the Stone bill great prominence. Colonel Stone has worked hard since he first went to Congress to secure the passage of the law to restrict immigration, and it was through his efforts that a bill was passed.

Colonel Stone cares little for the amenities of so-called social life, though he occasionally goes out with his wife, of whom he is very proud. He has a keen sense of humor and is deeply interested in her husband's career and success. She is a graceful hostess and has no more fastidious critic nor less astute than her husband.

Colonel Stone divides his evenings among his wife, children and books. He is an omnivorous reader, never making a railroad journey without the companionship of a book. His one of the recent trips from here to Philadelphia he was immersed in the "Seeds of the Mighty." He has so decided a penchant for books of adventure that there is a standing order at the library for literature of that description. It is in the best possible that makes him so fascinating a story-teller to children.

The Library.

The meeting of the shareholders of the Bristol Library, held last Thursday evening in the Library room, was fairly well attended. A deep interest was taken in the proceedings. The predominant sentiment was favorable to continuing the Library, and to devising measures having that end in view.

J. K. Wildman, president of the Library, occupied the chair, and Jesse O. Thomas, secretary, took notes of the proceedings. A. Weir Gilkeson, Esq., was the first to take the floor. He clearly and fully acquainted the meeting with the condition of the Library, its resources and expenses, its financial needs and financial weaknesses, and made it evident that something must be done in order to secure its continued existence. The detailed statistics that he presented, extending over a long period, were valuable and interesting, having been prepared with great care, and which tended to show that the Library had not been self-supporting, but depended on contributions or entertainments to augment its necessary resources. Mr. Gilkeson's remarks, tending with cold, solid facts from which there was no escape, were not of a nature to inspire hope or flatter with cheer.

George A. Shoemaker, in addressing the meeting, acknowledged the unpromising condition of affairs, but wisely took the ground that it was not more generously patronized, and wished that something might be done to extend its usefulness and make it attractive to a larger circle of readers. In subsequent remarks he made a pledge to doing a liberal purchase of readerships that had the right ring, indicating his well-known spirit of generosity, and desire to promote the public good.

The president, referring to the fact that hitherto the Library had largely depended on entertainments to help supply its treasury, asked if the days of entertainments were over. Knowing that all worthy enterprises involved hard work and well-directed exertion, he believed that there was a willing hand that would not shrink from needed effort in this case, and he felt that there was no reason to be discouraged or to believe that the Library could not be sustained in the future as it had been in the past. He appealed to the ladies present who were largely in a majority to give expression to their views, and especially on the subject of entertainments.

Miss Hawke was of the opinion that a reduction in the price of readerships from $1.50 to $1 might have a good effect, and this suggestion subsequently took the form of a motion, referring the subject to the board of managers for their action.

A letter that had been received from Harold Peirce was read, in which he stated that he would consider it an everlasting disgrace to Bristol to have the Library closed, and that, as one who is interested in Bristol, he would be willing to contribute regularly for five years to a guarantee fund sufficient to keep the Library in proper shape. The letter will be referred to the Board of Managers. It forcibly reflects the known liberality of Harold Peirce.

Rev. Dr. Albion was invited to speak. He was earnestly in favor of continuing the Library, and thought with Mr. Peirce that it would be a disgrace to close it. He heartily commended much that had been said by those who had spoken, and thought it well to be so fully enlightened in regard to the condition and needs of the Library. He was emphatic in his belief that something would be done to keep it in successful operation. His good words were highly encouraging.

After much interchange of thought and expression of views, by one and another, Dr. Albion made a motion in favor of continuing the Library which was unanimously adopted. Mr. Gilkeson then moved that a committee of five be appointed by the chair to take action in regard to entertainments, and to report at the December meeting of the Board of Manager. This was adopted, and the following were appointed as the committee: Mrs. Shoemaker, Miss Hawke, Miss Gilkeson, Miss Lawrence and Miss Laura Wood.

After a few remarks by the president who stated that he believed that the meeting had been useful and would do good, causing encouragement to take the place of discouragement in his own and other minds, and who hoped that the action of the committee would lead to good results advantageous to the Library, the meeting adjourned. * * *

At the Food Exhibit in Philadelphia on Monday, Mrs. Rorer lectured on "New ways to serve eggs." With all due respect to Mrs. Rorer's effort to work an innovation in the method of handling the product of the feathered tribe, it is confidently believed that the ancient custom of serving eggs to show appreciation of barn-storming actors will never be abolished.

Prior to Tuesday November 8, there was an impression abroad that free silver would again be the issue in the Presidential campaign of 1900. It was a mistake. Free coinage of the white metal is as dead as an Egyptian mummy. The people of the nation resented the impudently that the verdict of 1896 was not final and as a result last week they make a corpse of the silver party.

Next Thursday will be Thanksgiving Day. The country has much to be thankful for this year. We should be grateful for the successful termination of a bloody war, for the property which is now covering our beloved country. Also, for the present condition of affairs of State, having been placed beyond the probability of disastrous administrations by incompetent and erratic officials.

Friend Eastburn Vindicated.

Doylestown Republican. Hugh B. Eastburn, as a delegate in the last National Republican Convention, voted for the nomination of William McKinley, and at the latest election the administration of President McKinley was emphatically endorsed, likewise the vote of Mr. Eastburn who helped to give the Presidential nomination to the man who now so ably fills the office of Chief Executive.

Distressing Results of Defeat.

New Hope News. Colonel Stone, "M. S. Quay's protégé," was in this State, for Mr. Voorhees, "captain of the trusts," in New Jersey, and Theodore Roosevelt, "the tax dodger," in New York. With the exception of Pennsylvania it was generally a matter of two evils, whether the people chose the greater or lesser remains to be seen.

The war between the Trenton gas companies is getting interesting. The rival illuminating companies are vying with each other in generosity and in consequence gas is almost given away. A few years ago gas sold at $2 per 1000 feet. Today the price is offered to the fortunate people of Trenton is 25 cents per 1000 feet. In the meantime in order that the people can enjoy a good thing to its fullest extent one of the companies is selling gas ranges, heaters and other attachments at cost price and making connections without cost to the householders.
